In reality, they cover the skies in just a few hours. When the skies are filled all flights seem to stop.
If theres that much condensation (water), why doesn't it rain, or maybe we will drown breathing the air.
They NEVER travel same path in order to cover more skies.
So funny reading these paid trolls excuses for the obvious,..

Why am I seeing umpteen posts from various sources attempting to explain away the long-lasting exhaust plumes from aeroplanes all of a sudden?

Surely these exhaust plumes have been there ever since commercial air travel came about.... Perhaps its because people are wising up to the truth with respect to the contents of these exhausts.

Yes clouds /contrails trap heat in earth's atmosphere. But they are also white and reflect sunlight.

I do wonder how much heat do they trap and how much sunlight do they reflect, cooling the earth as well.

Or is the effect of trapping the heat way more severe than the reflection of sunlight?

This is disheartening news. 2 fold.

I suspected that all though they spew a ton of greenhouse gas emissions at least their contrails increased the albedo effect reflecting heat back into space not trapping it more. Ugh.

And 2 this thread shows the scary level of individuals that are severely under educated in basic science and believe this idiotic "chemtrails" conspiracy theory. Humanity is so doomed.

They are not Chem trails as some suggest. They are condensation trails. As temperatures vary with altitude , the contrails can vary (even start and stop). Actually, they shield the earth from sun (small degree for sure) which would lower the warming. This was verified during Covid when air travel was dramatically reduced

I do not believe this. I think they are trying to hide the seeding of the sky with chemicals to block the sun and cause more rain. They have been playing with the weather for years, what they are not saying is the fact they are putting aluminum and other metals in the sky. The health effects on the planet from this behavior is much worse than the so called warming of the sun.

Modern aircraft burn less fuel and are more fuel efficient. If the contrails are a bigger problem, it's because of the amount of planes producing contrails, more than the contrails they produce now compared to older planes.

Correction: You mean Chemtrails not 'contrails', as they are loaded with toxic chemicals.
