

BRAVE NEW WORLD DOWN UNDER

The yarn goes that Bonnie Prince Charlie and Mr Microsoft let slip a few years back that depopulation would serve this globe well. What with China now dropping the one kid policy, there's goin' to be zillions of little mites running about.

Fact is, there are too many useless eaters. We of the more 'enlightened kind,' have pretty well stitched up the unfolding of a new world order. Globalization! We've had our protocols in place for a long time. We're proud of our elitist badge! We keep tabs on all nations in our league including you lot. Must say on the whole Aussie's are a pretty laidback, complacent mob; they like their booze and footy.

Way back we got the sheeple tricked up big time when we dumped the gold standard and created 'money' out of thin air. (breathe the fresh air boys, those dollars are rolling into our coffers). Now folks are loaded to the max with mortgages they can't pay back. "Plug your ear holes that bubble is ripe to go bang!" We limited their freedoms with laws, (thanks to those 'terror events'). Corporate mainstream media serve our global agenda well, those jurno's sure toe the line! We censored the media with national security legislation so confusion and disinformation could be spread on all fronts.

Fun part was mesmerizing the people with entertainment, social media and rampant consumerism. Then for good measure saddling them up with more laws and taxes; incuding that infamous GST that can only go one way but up, up, UP!

Fortunately you mob don't care a stuff about politics, not like in the good ole US . We like our flags and parades. Sure got you Aussie pollies tamed. We give 'em the incentives of course, appeal to their vanity and line their pockets. They get their cushy jobs when they've done their 'public service,' as long as these same puppets serve us well. We tell 'em, "keep the illusion going, make the masses believe that democracy actually gives them a choice." Throw in a red herring like we did here in the USA with our Trump. I guess Palmer will do for now (look-alikes, but our's is a little noisier). It really does work though; tickles their fancy and distracts the masses with all the hype and keeps most of 'em pliable. What a laugh, these fine honorable members of parliament, they play their part well.

Push through the TPP Mr Turnbull! We didn't just put you in the hot seat for nothin', no slacking off! Abbott was a joke, wouldn't toe the line. We bankers got to stick together. We say "let the multinational corporations have their way with the Australian people." Bring on Obamacare too, careful, take it slowly, prime 'em up first, soften the blow.

Well done with the compulsory vaccination legislation, all dusted and done. Nifty logo, 'No Jab, No Pay.' Jab 'em where it hurts we say. We read the headlines 'A 500 Million Dollar Budget Crunching Crackdown'. Wow! Them bogans will come running back in line for their shots soon enough. Otherwise, stack those $$ into our pills and potions. Gotta feel sorry for those poor buggers though, they need their dosh!

We sure got the people emotional, we've convinced them well and good now. You lot even fell for the Gardasil crap, toxic as it is. Crikey! You've even got the schoolboys queued up, who cares if they don't have a cervix! Easy money too, at $460 a pop! Mind you it's been prohibited in the more shall we say 'switched on nations.' Big Pharma wants the vaccine schedule expanded year by year. Keep up those multiple flu shots too! Those needle pricks would've looked a bit sus eventually but with all them tats, who'd notice. They don't make those vaccines like they used to! 'Nudge, nudge, wink, wink!' Get my drift?

We're on track now to roll out compolsury shots for all, young and old. Got the Adult Vaccination Register all set up. Prime time to slip in that ID chip we've been hankering to test out on some mob, it's ready and waiting in the wings. We say "if you microchip the dogs why not the people?" That way we can supervise the masses 24/7 and then go cashless.

In the next year or so, you pollies should be right to 'wheel out the trolley' so to speak and put that foodstamp program into action. That way them mugs can line up for their pie and coke. Nice and orderly, maybe throw in a few Tim-Tams for the diggers. (We look after our boys real good). You've already laid down the groundwork in the outback on your natives. Full marks for forward thinking. Slow an' easy, that's the way. Use the 'fair and equal, no discrimination' mantra, always works a treat. It's all in the 'psychology.' Don't you worry we got the cream of the crop pumpin' it out of the propaganda machine to help your bureaucrats.

Trouble is brewing on the horizon though. Just about time to 'ramp up the amp' a few more notches. Some of them guys in Aussieland are waking up and causing us some angst. Even with our shills working overtime on the net we can't shake off the cluey ones. Fortunately those data retention laws helped heaps Malcolm. Thanks to you we can keep check on most of 'em.

The biggest shocker by far though, has just been shot out of the sky. Fact is we tricked the sheeple into believing in global warming, what with all those shonky scientists we funded. Unfortunately that pesky scientist blew the lid on our geoeengineering program we've had going for the last decade or so. Can you believe it! We've been dumping the shit over their heads for years and they still haven't noticed. Duh!! Even gave it a pretty name 'Operation Indigo Skyfold.' Simply 'coal fly ash' and a few secret ingredients. Couldn't get more toxic and cheap as chips. Talk about heating the planet! The blasted International Journal of Environmental Research and Public Health went ahead and published the bloody evidence. At least we got the EPA and weather agencies still tied up in knots. They can't say boo about our covert operations. We're talking about mega $$$$. We got the military, industry, universities, media and government in bed. Soon we can make the carbon tax legit worldwide.

The sheeple are goin' to need our pharmaceuticals real bad to medicate their poor health, what with all that aluminium in the environment and in their veins. We've got the boys at the Monsanto labs all clued-up. They're developing the aluminium resistant seedstock, 'cause before long the soil will be too contaminated for anything else. The mob are already so dumbed down, getting sicker and sicker by the day, with all those autoimmune, 'neuro' and autism diseases on the increase. They're more interested in the Kardashians than connecting the dots. Give it a decade and we'll have our zombies. Helps heaps to prime 'em up like we do rolling out all those movie flicks. Softens the blow so to speak, otherwise the goons get toey if they don't get their 'fix.' A special thanks is due to Julie for glamming it up big time with our 'RatPak' boys. Now they can get their tax breaks like they deserve. (Cue: violin) Talk about stealing from the poor to give to the rich!

We reckon you guys down under ain't goin' to rock the boat too much, that's why you make such good mates. Who wants anymore messy wars? That whole Middle Eastern affair just got a tad harder, especially with Putin in the way. Gotta say, he's as 'sharp as a tack.' Pity he's not part of our club. (We got the Yankees conditioned to hate the commies way back, keeps them on side.) It's cost us a pretty penny though, arming and funding all those 'terrorists.' Pity the 'Twin Tower' an' the 'Weapons of Mass Destruction' productions are out for all to see. At least good ole Mr Cheney made his billions!

Australia it's time for a pivot towards your 'neck of the woods'. We'd like to put our boots on the ground real soon and set up base. Got our marines on snoop patrol, so we need those ports pronto! The Dragon is blowin' quite a smokestack. The fact is those BRIC boys aren't a push over, can't bait 'em either. How many more planes can we shoot out of the sky? (We need a new script Spielberg).

Anyway we're looking forward to doing more business with you Australia. Make sure you get that TPP over the line boys!

As they say, "you ain't the 'lucky country' for nothin' with friends like us!"

Elizabeth M. Huxley

Please note: The writer bears no malice towards the Australian people. No frivolity is intended. Her desire is to help uncover their eyes to see the reality of the great evil being inflicted upon humanity.

'If not for grace there walk I'

PUBLIC DOMAIN

