Legal action has been filed and is now underway in Canada that will greatly assist with the global effort to expose and halt the ongoing climate engineering assault against the planet and the entire web of life. For over a year GeoengineeringWatch.org has been communicating with and forwarding data to Canadian attorneys (in addition to the US team of attorneys we are working with) in the effort to get legal action in motion. This effort has now reached fruition, Geoengineering Watch wishes to express our most sincere gratitude to the attorneys in Canada (and the US attorneys) for their diligent and ongoing work in this most critical battle. Excerpts from the Canadian legal filing are below.

CLAIM

Nature of the Proceeding:

1. This is a mass-tort and environmental Proposed Class Proceeding in respect of the spraying into the atmosphere of toxic substances and particulates by the Defendant that is dangerous to human health, destructive to the environment, and has caused meaningful economic damages.

1. A Declaration that the aerial discharge of coal fly ash and/or other contaminants contravenes the Canadian Environmental Protection Act and appurtenant Regulations;
2. A Declaration that the aerial discharge of coal fly ash and/or other contaminants contravenes the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms;
- c. An interlocutory and a final mandatory order directing that the Defendant comply with the Canadian Environmental Protection Act and appurtenant Regulations;
4. An interlocutory and a final mandatory order directing that the Defendant comply with the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms;
5. An interlocutory and a final mandatory Order that the Defendant immediately cease and desist the ongoing aerial discharge of coal fly ash and/or other contaminants or substances;

Facts:

5. On various dates, the Plaintiff observed that certain aircraft discharged trails comprising of white particulate like matter (“Aerial Discharge”), and which Aerial Discharge would persist and often span across the horizon and across the length of the sky.
6. The Aerial Discharges slowly dissipated, formed a thin, hazy film across the sky, and would obfuscate the sun’s rays.
7. The Aerial Discharges dissipate across ranges of altitudes, including lower altitudes. Thus, the Aerial Discharges dissipate in the lower altitudes which include the air that the Plaintiff, his family and the potential members of the Class breath.
8. The Plaintiff pleads that the Aerial Discharges are comprised of minute particles that are toxic and/or are easily absorbed into the body and the environment, and are thus dangerous when absorbed into the body or the environment.
9. The Plaintiff pleads that the Defendant, and/or her agent’s or instrumentalities perform the Aerial Discharges over Canadian air space.

10. The Plaintiff further pleads that the Defendant knows or ought to know that the Aerial Discharges are dangerous.

Negligence

11. The Plaintiff relies on his pleadings above.

12. The Plaintiff pleads that the Defendant has a duty to not perform actions that are dangerous to the Plaintiff and proposed Members of the Class. The Plaintiff reiterates his pleadings that the Defendant engaged in the performance of the Aerial Discharges, the Aerial Discharges are dangerous, and that the Defendant knew or ought to have known that the Aerial Discharges are dangerous.

13. The Defendant has breached her duties to the Plaintiff and the proposed Class by engaging in the performance of the Aerial Discharges.

14. The Plaintiff further pleads that the Defendant's actions have caused meaningful damages to the Plaintiff and the proposed Class Members. The damages include, inter alia,

1. serious injury and, in some cases, death;
2. emotional and psychological trauma;
3. non-pecuniary damages;
4. pecuniary damages; and
5. loss of income.

Nuisance and Trespass

15. The Plaintiff relies on his pleadings above.

16. The Plaintiff reiterates his pleadings that the Aerial Discharges are performed by the Defendant in Canadian air space.
17. The Plaintiff also reiterates his pleadings that the Aerial Discharges dissipate into the lower atmosphere.
18. As a result, the Plaintiff pleads that the Aerial Discharges permeate and saturate the air breathed-in by the Plaintiff and potential Class Members, and thus, cause serious health problems and injuries.
19. Further, the Plaintiff pleads that the Aerial Discharges also infect, saturate and damage the environment, public property and private property.
20. Additionally, the Plaintiff pleads that the Aerial Discharges interfere and impede with the quiet use and enjoyment of the property of the Plaintiff and the potential Class Members.
21. The Plaintiff pleads that as a result of the foregoing, the Plaintiff and potential Class Members are entitled to the relief sought in paragraph 4 herein.
22. The Plaintiff proposes that this action be tried in the City of Toronto.

The efforts toward legal action in the US are also pressing forward as rapidly as possible, we hope to have initiation of the US filing underway in the next few weeks. Support for the non profit "Stop Geoengineering Legal Defense Fund" is critical in order to keep the legal efforts moving forward. Our legal efforts are not affiliated with any other groups, organizations, or websites. Though the forward momentum of the legal efforts are extremely important and valuable to the cause of exposing and halting climate engineering, it is imperative for activists in the field to understand and remember that the front line grassroots awareness raising efforts are still critically important, now more than ever. Exposure of the legal effort needs to be circulated as widely as possible. This will assist with alerting activists and the public to the ongoing court proceedings which will hopefully help with producing mass public attendance at such proceedings. Reaching a critical mass of awareness on the geoengineering issue is the great imperative of our time, all are needed in this effort. Waking the still sleeping masses to the ongoing atmospheric aerosol assault MUST BE our TOP PRIORITY, please, help us in this all important battle to sound the alarm.

We are developing a business platform to open in Canada 90% Oxygenation Healthspot Centres. Chemtrail spraying substances will not be able to exist in oxygen.. We are assembling the first location in Calgary, Albert.a. However, this lawsuit we will support. As concerned Citizens, it is rime that those few in power are committing "treason" on the global community at large, and should be held accountable.

The Wildfires in Alberta Canada are fueled by Magnesium and Aluminum along with Drought conditions to make a hotter than normal wildfire this is all due to Chemtrail Spraying and weather modification. Try to gather proof of these metals in the ash and add to the lawsuit.

I had left messages for Brad Wall as I am also from Saskatoon. A long time ago I had emailed the Conservative government about this issue. It appears that it has not fallen on deaf ears as there seems to already be an effective movement about this in Canada. Spread the word, we have a man with a good head on his shoulders in a great position in Canada and he listens. Take advantage of that as much as you can!

Hello Dane. Thank you, thank you, for your work. Through a FB feed I have come upon a YouTube presentation...you, a radio commentator and a 'conservative American named Craig'. Oh boy! Anyone listening would or should be shaking their head in great concern with the argument pursued by Mr. Conservative. He is stuck in his padded and narrow box of politics and philosophy empty of information. A box so rigid and unyielding that without becoming more pliable will become a cube of destruction. The narrow rigid box is an analogy for those on our planet who are refusing to take their head out of the sand to awaken to the truth of a reality that our beautiful planet is in peril. Earth has been manipulated for hundreds maybe thousands of years by a minority of powerful people (are they truly human?) who are greedy and cruel.

The term Cognitive dissidence mentioned by Steven C is apt. Good for pizza man Steven. He is certainly awake. I too am now relieved to find your website. I have been on a 'wake up' journey since January 2016. I am excited, saddened, and bolstering myself up to speak and do more to make a difference. So many of my friends and family are veiled in complacency. Right now my sound is a tiny peep. I'm building my confidence to rise above my shyness and fear of judgment to join the troops of truth. Fear not, for behold....

Having a special section with suggestions of what to do to fight against the nasty greedy giants who want us to believe they are untouchable is welcomed.

Keep up your dedication and good work. You and your colleagues are appreciated for all you do.

Dane,

yesterday we saw a chemtrail being sprayed very quickly, and it was huge, wide, and spread extremey fast. There were different components as well, I believe, by how it spreads.

Every day that they spray here in Phila., we get the one that spreads in evenly spaced big globs that hang down by a thinner "thread" of spray. That one makes me physically ill when I see it, it looks evil.

Anyway, I have signs in my car windows, in front of my house too, that we made years ago for a march in Philly.

In a tweet I asked Erin Brokavich if she has heard about any lawsuits regarding chemtrails. Have you ever talked with her?

Thank you so much for what you do!!

Erin is in Portland Oregon going after glass mfg plants for the same such chemicals found in chemtrails, they are still looking and talking about the ground while only looking three miles out from the site. The true cure for chem/geo poisoning that's been going on as far back as at least the 70's and ramped up with the Obama administration; is to stop them, period. It's great to hear about a lawsuit in action, just have to find a way to open the public minds to the deadly rain from above.

As well now that you have filled all employees will get hush orders and have a pre speech ready for the press . 9/11, vaccines, flit water on and on the Gov has a parallel that is followed in all cases . This will ensure the most amount of money is spent and the smallest result of truth is reached or published . Today is April 15th, 2016, and I would just like to make note of the fact, since the particulars of this law suit had been posted. the frequency and the occurrence of high flying aircraft performing chemical dumps over our area in southern Ontario seems to have subsided to the point of almost not being seen at all. Earlier in the year, I wrote to the Ontario minister of the environment Glen Murray and tried to explain to him how any form of pollution dump whether done accidentally or purposely IMO would fall under his portfolio. Of course I was blown off with a typical canned government response. If and when this law suit becomes a class action, my wife and myself are eager to become a part of.

with thanks to all who have made this all so far possible.

Pete, we've noticed here in GA, US that the chemicals have been changed for the season. Instead of the typical trails, we are now seeing two and three planes working at the same time with more of a comet style spraying that takes a dark blue sky to light blue, finally to white out. Some people believe the spraying has stopped but they just don't know what to look for with the new season.

Then I come back and it's always like I'm being hit with something. I never got flus the whole time I lived abroad. I'm not saying it's not going on there too, but not noticeably where I lived. Anyway, I'd love to see your site.....blog.....many thanks.....

I am not on FaceBook, but your post disappearing twice, is very suspicious. I could see maybe once, but twice, seems like the post is being monitored! Round after round after round of SAG/SAI/SRM being sprayed above the LOW & MID Level cloud layers. I have noticed this activity being conducted very heavily, most noticeably ahead of an approaching Cold Front, or what The Weather Channel has labeled as named Winter Storms! The past two Cold Fronts in March, were originally forecasted to produce 0.50 to 2 inches of rainfall, but we received less than 0.25 inches from each occurrence. The aerosolized skies above these fronts, have caused the moisture/water vapor to either disperse and or evaporate, leaving only a minimum amount of water vapor in the clouds, which only produced a minimal amount of rainfall! Dry lightning strikes have caused multiple brush fires throughout the state of Florida! Denver International Airport closed this past week for the third time ever, due to the snow. Of course more Geoengineered storm systems, have produced multiple tornados in multiple regions in the South, every month during Winter!

I live in Ontario, and I have been noticing very bizarre 'contrails' in the sky. They arent high at all, they are just over my house and the town near me and they are low altitude. I thought contrails are supposed to be kilometers high in the sky, these are maybe 1-2 kilometers high. They linger a short while, then disperse into a haze. They are never straight and narrow like the contrails made by a high flying 747.

Are these chemtrails? If they are, then how are they sprayed? The trails look like they come from the exhaust of the engine.

I noticed in the lawsuit, strong language about emotional damages, which should not be understated.

How can you move forward with your life when you clearly see the trees dying, feel the UV's piercing your skin, sore throat and mucus, jet noise non stop, chem-trails everywhere, yellowing sunset, drought-ed out landscapes, temperatures elevated to dangerous levels, the lack of real clouds and skies, the threat of depopulation, your children and grandchildren's future, the inability to have a garden grow, GMOs, Fukushima, and the litany of other issues too many to list here.

Its all too much for me, Ive had to turn to antidepressants and sleep sedatives. Tried going without them and Im a train wreck. I'm sure Im not alone here on this emotional piece.

You are suffering a depression that most are feeling. I look out at my forest and the assorted flora forming a vital part in the web of life and see the decline. This depresses me. And psychologically there is a sense in my attitude that is not conducive to a future tense. Yes , it IS depressing. But this madness has to be ended. The emotion I use to override depression is to maintain an energizing level of anger about the state of affairs. And there are many many many Citizens who also are depressed and angry. And so we direct it into a positive. Get active. Hand out flyers. Segue the topic into conversations. Phone the local, state, and federal representatives. Badger them with photos. Demand they stop this NOW. This is the only avenue that has kept me from crawling into a corner curled up and muttering to myself. Good luck.

Yesterday, Friday, I spent the afternoon at a local farmers' market handing out fliers. The weather situation was perfect for this because the atmosphere was streaked from northeast to southwest with long long lines of spraying. Usually the trails when not helter skelter come from the northwest to the southeast. So this was different for whatever reason these terrorists have to change direction. One individual's first comment was how 'they' had put down a grid pattern over LA last week in order to "make it rain." It seems that red herring is well absorbed by the general population. But a lightbulb blinked on as we talked further and he eagerly took the flyer. People were receptive, and the geoengineering evidence was so much in evidence that merely pointing skyward to LOOK UP made my case easier.

The term sin and the term crime seem to go hand in glove. Repent means to stop committing sinful criminal acts against God, nature, and one's fellow man. This would also suggest that while the aforementioned is against a third party, the reality is the crime is profoundly performed upon oneself by oneself and will suffer the consequences accordingly. Unfortunately, this impacts one and all. Happy Easter. I get that message even though of all the Christian holidays, this one seems, outside of the message, beautifully pagan.

Holy Fug Batman, it's "ice fog", again. Hey "stupid", do you think rural Canadians are senseless? You don't even try to hide the lies. These are your stats (as I write): -4C, 99% RH, 102.3 kpa, 1 km vis, 30,000' ceiling. In real life it's -5C with no snow cover to sublimate. The RH can't be that high unless it's been sprayed on. My barometer reads 101.8 kpa, its a star clear morning so a 30,000' ceiling seems reasonable. Three hours later and there is now a solid stinky blanket of gray overhead. At 30,000'? At 102.4 kpa? Fug off, we're not that stupid.

I walk outside in the dark morning sky and I hear my dog sneeze after he inhales the fresh air. He never sneezes in my house. In this rural area we hear the sound of overhead aerosol cans. My nose alerts me to the not-so-fresh smelling air and begins to tingle, drip and burn. I often get that ash taste in my mouth, that others on this site have referred to. While cross country skiing on virgin snow, I feel the phony snow chemistry in my legs and body. I don't need to look up in daylight to see chemtrails and phony clouds in our skies to know what's going on, but I can't help but see it. Most of us have "6 senses" so don't waste much time arguing with someone who's research is limited to what they "saw or heard" on their favorite media.

Congratulations to Dane and your legal team. I will certainly pass along the good news to my colleagues in Canada. I will forward you some lab results of snow melt and rain collected here in rural Ontario over the past 18 months. The lab results support what you and many other knowledgeable people have described. This website provides such critical information to answer the questions our 6 senses are begging. Thank you and Best Success!

Open Letter to Christian clergy: So, you're our counselors about Heaven?

Reply

March 25, 2016 at 6:51 pm

Dane, great work. Consider what you do: stepping into the void of leadership. Particularly absent on this evening of "good Friday" is the clergy.

Since a few days ago I can't get over their unfathomable collective act of treachery towards their own flock. You supposed spokesmen for Heaven are too good to get involved with the very rape of the Heavens, huh? Nothing to see, move along?

I'm directing particular ire towards so-called Christian clergy. Who are the third generation dung, for the most part, of heavily CIA infiltrated "divinity school" bastions, raised on denial of the divine and abhorrence of the topic of life after death, known to much of the world as reincarnation (don't start squirming yet – go to your dictionaries and realize that in many ways reincarnation is a synonym for the resurrection you supposedly advocate). You don't like the subject of resurrection/karma, do you? speaking of Easter...

I hope some of you are reading what I write here. I mean it to sting. For it would be one thing if you were merely worthless. But you are destroying your own flock both body and soul. Preaching a spiritual GMO starvation diet and neglecting our material welfare as well. Here we are in a world in which professed atheists mourn for Hell having been demoted by the Holy See to a mere "literary device." Because anyone with a shred of decency wants the banking cartle (G.uns, O.il, D.rugs) to burn in some inferno forever. This is not exaggeration, nor hypothesis. Even those with no stock in Heaven want to see the authors of geoengineering go to Hell.

Steinbeck's The Winter of our Discontent kicks off with the protagonist arguing with his wife upon waking up on Good Friday, asking: why call it good? Is this not the epitome of treachery? The date of perhaps the world's most infamous lynching?

This, Christian clergymen – of whom next to none are willing to square off about the issue of geoengineering – makes you come right to mind. And I spent decades walking among you in my sincere quest, being shunned for believing we come back in material form for repayment according to our deeds, both good and evil. You, most of you clergy, have sucked the CIA Kool-aid dispenser dry. You've taken away divine justice and replaced it with warm, fuzzy feel-good and pseudopsychiatry. And I know any of you who are reading this are starting to squirm. You who have any shred of sincerity. Those of you – and you are so many – receiving your paycheck from the CIA vis a vis a certain middle eastern roague state that has borrowed the name of the proverbial tribe like a beard to ravage the world – go back to your DUMBS and await hellfire, I have nothing else to say to you.

For those of you who have the tiniest shred of integrity left as Christians – on this sorrowful anniversary – hey, I suggest you resign. Because the CIA edifice blows hot and cold running denial into every pew. This is why it bothers you not that the blood of your flock is on your gnarly, satan-scratched paws. You think you're going to be raptured away to survive eternity as an intelligent gas while the planet is destroyed, don't ;you? You don't look at the innumerable parts depicting a planet regenerated after – as Revelation 11:18 states – those who destroy the earth are themselves destroyed.

What is it about you? You foul brood, who love your holy terror wars, to whom the idea of a ruined planet as some perverse notion of holy judgment appeals? It's your black shiny shoe mentors you want to please, isn't it? That paycheck, your personal dalliance with the great war machine slush fund called Wall Street? Your paycheck, your pension? If you are sincere, get out on the streets and work the issue with Dane. Give up on the organized effort. It teems with cowards, compromised snake oil boys and bona fide satanists at the pulpit. There's no occasion for a sincere leader among them any more than the wretches who put Jesus away were willing to repent. Make a splash. Die for your flock if it must be – you do have an example. Your silence is taking your flock to the abattoire fast. Stand up against this omnicide or relish the company of the evil elite forever...

Congratulations Dane and All involved!! It is a step in the Right direction! Horsegirl, you have a wonderful way with words flowing from mind to page. Brought on a big smile in Canada's Northern Saskatchewan. You, a simple horseman, and Marc should all write books at some point... I would purchase them for my shelf! Being Good Friday, thought I would take a moment to share these words for all who read them to consider:

"Do the gods of different nations talk to each other? Do the gods of Chinese cities speak to the ancestors of the Japanese? To the lords of Xibalba? To Allah? Yahweh? Vishnu? Is there some annual get together where they compare each other's worshippers? Mine will bow with their faces to the floor and trace wood grain lines for me, says one. Mine will sacrifice animals, says another. Mine will kill anyone who insults me, says a third. Here is the question I think of most often: Are there any that can honestly boast, my worshippers obey my good laws, and treat each other kindly, and lead simply generous lives?"

Micoplasams are in the Chem Trails too...

Clifford Carnicom has done some very good sleuth work with regard to what we're being sprayed with. You can read all about it at <http://carnicominstitute.org/wp/ >; I think I remember reading that the bacteria, viruses and fungi are agents used in "studies." Someone out there has literature proving that e-coli is being sprayed on us because of it's "usefulness" in atmospheric studies. We're being sprayed, actually, with a very nasty "toxic diarrhoea" of microbes, all in the name of "Science," the "god" that the new High Priests, the "scientists" want to foist on us. Because this "god" is A-L-L about munnee! "He" works FOR the "scientists" and their handlers, the corporate-banking-military cabal running Earth– BOOO YAHHH!!!!

1. Superstition– "magical" gods who can fix all our ails, never mind our own ability and our own responsibility to do just that... it's a lot more fun to imagine you have a Magical Parent who will come down here "some day" and clean up all your impossible messes FOR you!!!

2. "Science," in the actual pursuit of PROFIT, NOT TRUTH...

Frank, don't forget about every single environmental group out there that 'fights for the reef' by protesting mining and oil drilling efforts by Adani, etc. For sure mining and drilling should not happen in such an environment, but there is not one peep about the weather modification programs going on right now above everyone's heads, right over the reefs, the seas, the lands.

Isn't it strange how effectively muzzled the environmental groups are? Normally they are almost militant when it comes to outrageous crimes against nature. Who has muzzled them so effectively? I'm talking about GetUp!, Avaaz, Change.org, Greenpeace, The Wilderness Society, The Australian Conservation Foundation just to name a few. Because they ask for donations and that is probably how they survive financially, who knows, maybe they will find themselves short of funding if they broke their silence?

In Brisbane, Australia today (Easter Saturday), the sky was smashed with SRM. Yesterday was fairly bereft of obvious signs, except the colour of the sky was too pale a blue, but today very very obvious trails, thin, feathering out, lines with blobs falling off them, x's and great big messy patches. It didn't help the heat either. It was a stinker and I felt lethargic all day.

I really think the reef is done for. It is too delicate to survive warming. Add to that the toxic fallout from SRM and increased UVB. I can imagine when the last polyp has died, the oil and mining companies will say, 'Oh well, we can drill and mine it now, because there is nothing for us to damage!'

- o  BaneB says:
March 27, 2016 at 2:18 pm

Michel B..... You are so right about the environmental groups and their failure to address that which surely they have to know about. The suspicion is they have been subverted by too much grant money largesse from foundations and assorted benefactors. They have allowed their co-option to dictate the seen and unseen. The EPA is a joke, too. That stupid gun toting agency was subverted by corporate Babylon quite a few years ago. It seems obvious that EPA knows in some divers corners that a covert spray program is being conducted. How could they not. Their silence is their exposure, along with the sell out by the environmental groups.

One thing I have wondered about is when the top brass in the military will stop taking orders from the money printers. Don't the military guys know they have the greatest power in their very hands? The money printers are just computer jockeys making ledger records and there are precious few of them at that.

I know the military obey orders from above, but they must also know there is nothing really stopping them from disobeying. Where is the finance guys' power really located? It is not in any physical means. It is probably not in a physical location. It is a phantom in the guise of 'authority'.

Remember in the movie, 'A Clockwork Orange', when the nasty antihero, Alex, is arrested for killing a woman? He sneers and says that he knows the law. The policeman blithely replies, "Yes, we know the law too, but we also know that knowing the law isn't everything."

My point is that top military brass must know who they really work for and what they do in their jobs isn't for freedom of anyone. How much has the American public been shown images and stories of foreign tyranny? What will the military do when they see it openly enough in their own country, when it touches their families and friends and loved ones? Will they start to realise that over 300 million (and that is just the US, not to mention the rest of the world) is being f*d over by only several thousand as who have wormed their way into the back corridors of power like the rats that they are?

I know the a-holes exercise a powerful grip on the minds of the military, but the military will wake up with the rest of us and they will be seeing red, like communist red.

I was so happy about the filing, excellent news, way to go Dane! Hey Dennie, I know that feeling of suffocation, I had it a lot this past summer and beyond, then one day I went outside and could get my breath again. I think it took time to adjust to the lower oxygen level in the air but I finally did, that is my theory, since now I don't feel that suffocation. I've read that often the human body can adjust to something provided it is a gradual change. Whereas a sudden dramatic change could kill a person, a slow one will allow the body to adjust, though I know there is a limit past which one cannot survive. I was telling an airline pilot about the lower level of oxygen in the air, saying it was about 15 percent now, and he was totally on top of it; he corrected me and said it was 14.7 or something. Yikes!! During this period I would just stare at other people walking and wondered how they could handle it; they seemed to not notice. Even before this though I found I just did not want to breathe, and I would catch myself trying to go without, or taking just tiny little breaths, I was doing this even before I found out about the geo engineering. Supposedly our lives are a certain number of breaths, so one should take fewer, deeper breathes, but who wants to, with all this going on? And some people at my temple would comment and remind me to take deep breaths, but I didn't want to. After I found out about the spraying, I really didn't want to! But have you stocked up on plants for the indoors? One time I went into my bathroom and I just felt there was not enough oxygen in there so I went to Home Depot and bought a bunch of those heart shaped philodendrons and put them in my bathroom. Fill your house with plants to make sure you are getting enough oxygen and you can take them out at night, that way you can get a higher concentration of oxygen. My yard is full of bushes and trees, and when I felt that suffocating feeling I would hang out near my tree's leaves on the lower branches and just try to breathe. It was terrible, it sucks that we even have to talk about this but thank God for Dane sounding the alarm and explaining everything, we'd be really screwed without him.

The airplane pilot to whom you refer, I am guessing he is commercial and flies big fuel guzzling planes to and fro. We all know the emissions are toxic. What is not discussed generally is the enormous destruction of oxygen by these machines. If he knows the oxygen content is 14.7% then surely he must have considered his role in your suffocation. The the airline matrix is a self made feedback loop disseminating enormous biospheric destruction in and if it own operations, from the large tracts of land buried under macadam, the carbon footprint, the geoengineering aerosols, the depletion of global oxygen; these are the ingredients of planetary suicide.

The Real Likelihood of a Nuclear War / Paul Craig Roberts / March 24, 2016

... there is a real likelihood of a nuclear war breaking out. ...When you destroy trust between nuclear powers you recreate the possibility of nuclear war, either by intent, or miscalculation. So this is a reckless and irresponsible act on the part of Washington. The information war that is going on now is to prepare the American population and NATO allies for military conflict with Russia. Some neocons say: what's the good of nuclear weapons if you can't use them? They have a theory that the US has sufficient superiority to win a strike against Russia. If the US cannot win against a few thousand Taliban, it will not be able to win a possible conventional war against the Red Army,

Washington will go nuclear rather than lose a conflict with Russia (or China). A nuclear war cannot be won. The neoconservatives now have no competition. There is nobody out there apart from Washington wishing to take over the world. As long as the American vassal states that comprise NATO accept American hegemony, they magnify the chance of a new massive war. Republican candidates are competing with each other to see who can treat Russia the most aggressively. full article here: <http://www.paulcraigroberts.org/2016/03/24/the-real-likelihood-of-a-nuclear-war-paul-craig-roberts/>

Yes, and WE are their pawns, and bullseye, ground zero, and their lab rats.. This nation has been subverted by a foreign power with an agenda that is not operating for the interest of the people here in "Babylon." There are two NWOs competing for global control. One is secular. The other is religious. Both of these originate out of the Middle East (Mesopotamia). One force operates out of the barrel of the gun. The other by way of dogmatic faith. To some extent they are in cooperation. This is because the latter obtained its credentials from the former. While Israel sees Persia as an immediate threat, she views Russia (GOG) as the major long term threat. What we observe in the sphere of Babylon's (USA) foreign policy is a hijacking that serves not the interest of Babylon, but does operate in Israel's strategic interest. Hence, there is this ominous sense of a national foreign policy gone schizophrenic, illogical, and bungled. The point of departure from a common sense strategic national self-interest began with the 9-11 con. PNAC and the Neocons, are pushing the envelope. Both display suicidal tendencies. We the people of the world are their hostage. Unless saner leadership steps forward and forces out the subversives, IMO our great cause to end the destruction of our atmosphere and our biosphere will be for naught. The push back is about LIFE and its continuation. After all, what else is there in existence but that.

Ry Richards — Dane is going to do a chelation health advice article soon. In the meantime, here are a few ideas on detox. Large doses of Vitamin C, plus take Magnesium, Potassium, Copper & Zinc. Everyone is different, also depending on your age, so listen to your own body. Eat organic as much as possible. No sugar or alcohol (which is sugar) because sugar is a poison and destroys the immune system. I have been researching chelation techniques and they often come with side-effect warnings. The best I have found thus far is the Silica in horsetail for heavy metal chelation: <http://www.whatissilica.com/> Silica has other good side effects too like anti-inflammatory, etc. Bamboo is also a source of Silica, but it is much stronger than the horsetail and it can over time cause irreparable kidney damage. I have learned to begin with small doses. I'm taking one a day of the NOW Silica Complex – and it really has improved my aluminum 'fog': <http://www.nowfoods.com/Silica-Complex-90-Tablets.htm> (amazon also sells this). And I am taking small doses of Chlorella. Make sure the product you buy does not come from Japan (god-forbid!). Kefir has really made a difference for me. Also hemp oil is excellent. You can research these suggestions online, try different products and see what works for you. Last but not least is colostrum twice times a day. I don't think I would be alive today if I hadn't started on colostrum two years ago. My favorite colostrum product is SYNERTEK, after trying many others, including ones from New Zealand (NZ is not 'pure', sorry to report). Powder or serum. <http://synertekcolostrum.com/>

Blackwater's Founder is Under Investigation for Money Laundering, Ties to Chinese Intel, and Brokering Mercenary Services

ERIK PRINCE, founder of the now-defunct mercenary firm Blackwater and current chairman of Frontier Services Group, is under investigation by the U.S. Department of Justice and other federal agencies for attempting to broker military services to foreign governments and possible money laundering, according to multiple sources with knowledge of the case.

What began as an investigation into Prince's attempts to sell defense services in Libya and other countries in Africa has widened to a probe of allegations that Prince received assistance from Chinese intelligence to set up an account for his Libya operations through the Bank of China. The Justice Department, which declined to comment for this article, is also seeking to uncover the precise nature of Prince's relationship with Chinese intelligence.

MAJOR RADIATION LEAK/SOUTH FLORIDA/216 Times Higher than Normal

Sitting adjacent to Biscayne National Park, the Turkey Point Nuclear Generating Station has been leaking radioactive materials into protected waters, according to a new study. Performed by Dr. David Chin from the University of Miami, the results released Tuesday morning by Miami-Dade County found high levels of a radioactive isotope in Biscayne Bay. Those radioactive waters are coming from the power plant's cooling canals, raising radioactivity levels 215 times higher than normally found in seawater, the report added. "This is one of several things we were very worried about," South Miami Mayor Philip Stoddard told the Miami New Times. "You would have to work hard to find a worse place to put a nuclear plant, right between two national parks and subject to hurricanes and storm surge." Two weeks ago, a Tallahassee judge ordered Florida Power and Light Co., owner of the plant, and the state to clean up the cooling canals, according to the Tampa Bay Times. Past studies found the leaking canals were forcing a large plume of underground saltwater to move west, which posed a huge threat to a well field that provides the Florida Keys with its drinking water, the report added. Issues at the cooling canals have escalated since 2013, when the plant expanded to increase power output by 15 percent, the Times report also said. Water temperatures inside the canals rose to dangerous levels several times, especially during a 2014 drought. Despite near-shutdowns of the plant due to water temperatures rising as high as 102 degrees, the report added, nuclear regulators gave officials permission to allow the canals to reach 104 degrees, the hottest temperature of any plant in the country. ... FPL responded to the report, telling the Miami New Times it needs more time to review specific parts of the study, but reiterated the company is committed to the protection of Biscayne Bay.

Turkey Point Nuclear Plant Is Pumping Polluted Water Into Biscayne Bay

... Adds State Rep. Jose Javier Rodriguez: "For years our state regulators have failed to take seriously the threat to our public safety, to our drinking water and to our environment posed by FP&L's actions at Turkey Point. Evidence revealed this week of radioactive material in Biscayne Bay is the last straw and I join those calling on the US EPA to step in and do what our state regulators have so far refused to do – protect the public.”

At the heart of the troubling issue revealed in the new report is a system of canals surrounding the nuclear plant in southeast Miami-Dade. Nuclear cores must be constantly cooled to avoid meltdowns. The canals circulate water through the plant to leach heat off the reactors.

As FPL prepared to expand the plant's reactors in 2013, critics such as Stoddard warned that relying on the canals was a mistake. For one thing, environmentalists argued, the hot, salty canal water would inevitably leak back into Biscayne Bay and the Everglades.

"They argued the canals were a closed system, but that's not how water works in South Florida," Stoddard says.

Extra heavy chem trails @35-40 thousand feet. The aircraft are constant, all day clear blue skies going North~South, and South~North patterns. Are those aircraft computer controlled, Dane? San Francisco, CA. My late fireman friend and I noticed when HAARP effects occurred the new storm clouds are dark, dark not natural shades of gray and going to black. Then rain or an immediate changed occurred.. All not natural weather.

Monday nite, 7 PM ,San Francisco those dark clouds appeared.

I and friend check local weather websites for past two years.

No rain for Monday nite,this week sighted. Well those dark clouds, I knew were HAARP created. At 11:30 PM and 12:45 AM two short down pours of rain came. And I was informed not all areas of San Francisco had those two down pours.. I am sure the rain was created locally.

Friend at 11:30 PM showed me the NOAA Radar scan(actual time had the change of weather. Other local sites did not indicate rain at all.

That is how one will not the rain or dark cloud is not of natural origin.. Best to all.

We had absolutely heavy downpouring rain Monday afternoon/evening in Alameda and Santa Clara counties, last Monday, March 21st. Very heavy rain showers encountered driving southbound through Fremont, then again on the way back up 880 heading to Hayward. Very heavy rain for about 45 minutes; it rained like HELL here on Monday. I was driving in it, along with a few tens of thousands of others on their way back up from Silly-Con Valley. It was very wet and stormy out there. While I yearn to be hopeful about the legal course, there are concerns I can think of that might cause legal action to backfire, at least in the US.

On appeal 1.6 million low paid women who either were employed or had been employed by Walmart (Walmart vs. Dukes) were deemed "not to have enough in common" to be considered a "class" by the US Supreme Court. Dukes vs. Walmart was a sex discrimination case alleging men got paid more than women there and promotion policies favored men.

Chris Hedges sued Obama over the Section 1021 of the NDAA as a journalist who communicated the "enemy" or "terrorists" in his professional capacity. This communication might be construed as material support of the enemy that could subject him to indefinite military detention at a black site. Among other determinations Hedges was deemed to have "no standing" because he had not been "harmed" by the law.

My admiration of these courageous lawyers is immense, and it's possible that these cases will stir up wide attention of our complaints. That might be the best we can hope for. As you've wisely observed Dane, we cannot where surprising, unexpected help might come from.

From my reading in various text books and online articles, all these plasma technologies are similar. CERN, HAARP, Tokamak/compact fusion, etc. They are generating power beams of electrons or protons and directing them at plasma to activate the plasma cells and generate energy which they use for various purposes. Proton beams are more powerful, they dissipate less. We know they have been shooting into the Ionosphere for many years now, actually creating holes. Considering that the US Department of Energy is partnered with the US Navy, it can be no secret that they want Tesla's technology to replace oil. But it won't be free.

This from CERN gives a general idea of the technology:
<http://home.cern/new-technologies-high-luminosity-lhc>

CERN AWAKE is the proof-of-principle experiment whose aim is to use protons to generate powerful wakefields to accelerate an electron beam. With accelerator gradients hundreds of times higher than those used in current systems, this technique could revolutionise the field of particle acceleration. Installed in the tunnel previously used by the CNGS facility, AWAKE is completing the service installation phase and will receive the plasma cell in the coming months.

The AWAKE proton line with all the magnets installed. (Image: AWAKE collaboration.)

AWAKE is the world's first proton-driven plasma wakefield acceleration experiment. In AWAKE, a beam of protons from the SPS will be traveling through a plasma cell and this will generate a wakefield that, in turn, will accelerate an electron beam. A laser will ionise the gas in the plasma cell and seed the self-modulation instability that will trigger the wakefield in the plasma.

The project aims to prove that the plasma wakefield can be driven with protons and that acceleration will be extremely powerful, hundreds of times more powerful than that achieved today.

Over about 18 months of hard work, the teams have cleared the old CNGS area – leaving only the infrastructure that will be reused by AWAKE – and have modified the services to meet AWAKE's needs. "We dismantled 100 metres of the proton beam line, completed the civil-engineering needed to house the new electron and laser beam lines, removed several kilometres of old cables, and installed some 100 kilometres of new cables," says Edda Gschwendtner, CERN AWAKE project leader. "We have installed the 16 magnets for the proton line for AWAKE, built the laser clean room, modified the access and cooling and ventilation... It has been a huge amount of work in a very short time."

ACCELERATOR STUDIES ON A POSSIBLE EXPERIMENT ON PROTON-DRIVEN PLASMA WAKEFIELDS AT CERN / INTRODUCTION / PDF

It is well established that plasmas can be used to transform transverse fields into longitudinal fields [1]. Transverse fields in the plasma can be excited by short pulses of laser light (high transverse electrical fields, ponderomotive force) or by pulses of charged particles (space charge force). The principle of such a "plasma converter" is best understood by considering a short pulse of charged particles that is sent into a neutral plasma channel, a fully ionized gas with equal distribution of ions and free electrons. The plasma response to a short electron beam is described:

1) The electron driver pulse enters the plasma and expels the free electrons that are transversely accelerated (transverse driving force). The plasma ions move a negligible amount due to their higher mass. [full pdf here]:

complaints to their HR dept., safety officers, and so on. Any repercussions for reporting lack of safety equipment when inhaling the heavy metals/ nano-chemicals over past years ? Were any x-tra attempts made by companies to provide some barrier like gloves, hats, respirators, footwear, full body suits to maybe minimize what is already clearly spelled out (harmful dust, radiation, chemicals in Hazard Assessment at <http://www.osha.gov.publications. >

Not sure if the legal team has this aspect already covered—and maybe others posting here can submit/ share their experience for requesting these protection efforts. Has anyone maybe written up as a malcontent/ trouble -maker, laid off, terminated, denied worker's compensation, or disability, and so on. Companies don't typically want to spend more money on employees (safety) needs, especially, if they believe these are only vapor contrails—so there is nothing to do differently. Denial as business profit. Not that any co. can fully prevent nano -particulate -harm at this dire point—it is the intention to reduce the damage and risk. I cringe seeing outdoor workers with nothing more than sunglasses and maybe a visor. Today's legal announcement puts Her Majesty the Queen on notice & look forward to the American equivalent. Thanks to Dane and ALL the faithful attorneys !

Hurray! Finally, we can print this positive event in our Toronto Street News tabloid of 17 years. We've been printing chemtrail pics since 2002.

Finally, someone has followed up with an actual law suit.

Captain Platt of the Canadian Armed Forces told us about 2005 that Canada does not have its own "tankers" as he referred to them explaining that they were coming from the United States.

From my knowledge, they stationed on tiny islands all around the continent. Using the islands as take off points and each crew is assigned to a region. Our little weasel is just another puppet with a nice smile. Wait till they let the jihads loose on our disarmed community. I mean you do know the little weasel is housing these people on our canadian military bases passing them off as refugees. Not to mention the weasel went down to see the other puppet down there to finalize the plan for release and attack. Going to be a hell of a summer. Btw does anyone watch the weather maps on accu weather? You can see the weather manipulation on there radar feed quite clearly. You can see where harrp is hammering over toronto, clouds that don't move and haven't for months, green lines that are always there. Sickening really. @ Mike – a huge hooray for mentioning clouds that don't move. We've been so vexed in this ionospheric manipulation alley right above the Sea of Cortez where 80mph + winds – formerly unheard of – bluster away while weaponized airborne material the uninitiated would call "clouds" remain in the air without moving an inch. Ever. From south of the US border one can see the international boundary defined by a huge wedge of cheesecake hovering in an otherwise blue sky over the "national security" citadel of Douglas, Arizona. In Douglas' sister city of Agua Prieta, Sonora, Mexico, the power and behavior of the towers-controlled "clouds" is manifest to such an extent the blackbirds have literally vacated the microwave aerial wasteland above Douglas in preference to the Mexican side. I've chatted with numerous Mexicans about this. The atmosphere where the aforementioned airborne filth hovers literally repels birds. They sing by the millions in Agua Prieta while the graceful trees of Douglas, Arizona mostly are silent. Down with the towers.

On the subject of health effects of aerosol particulates via chemtrail dispersion, I know that complaints of upper respiratory symptoms/ allergic response/ asthma are way up.

Many residents in Porter Ranch, site of the methane leak, are still complaining about sore throats, irritation, etc. May be chemtrail induced rather than from the methane leak. SoCal is heavily sprayed and San Fernando Valley may be a hotspot. Sen Boxer's call for a multiple agency investigation needs to view WIDER picture.

And since I am the HAARP/earthquake guy, I wonder what force actually caused the gas pipe to rupture anyway? HAARP?

Last year the valley saw a mysterious and massive landslide at Vazquez Canyon. Also HAARP induced?

* HANFORD WASHINGTON STATE: Cemetery full of dead babies missing brains next to US nuclear site — Funeral Director: Almost all infants we have died the same way... “that’s pretty much all I see on death certificates” — Few miles from “most contaminated place in hemisphere” — “One of largest documented anencephaly clusters in US history” (VIDEO)

Published: March 23rd, 2016 at 10:04 am ET

Seattle Times, updated Jan 28, 2016: How the state is missing chances to find deadly birth defect’s cause... at least 40 other mothers have lost babies to [anencephaly, which result in missing large parts of the brain] in Yakima, Benton and Franklin counties since 2010... one of the largest documented clusters of anencephaly in U.S. history... “Something’s going on and someone needs to tell us,” said [mother Sally] Garcia... Dr. Lisa Galbraith was one of the doctors... In Prosser, the obstetrician oversaw care of Garcia’s pregnancy and others affected by the disorder... “I had a total of four or five babies with anencephaly over the course of two years,” recalled Galbraith... the rate of anencephaly was much higher [than US averages]... Washington health officials... have collected no blood samples, performed no genetic tests and conducted no examination of water, soil... and have no plans to do so... In Texas, just three babies with anencephaly sparked enough outrage to overhaul the state’s birth-defects reporting system.

Sara Barron, MS, BSN – American Journal of Nursing, Mar 2016: In the spring of 2012 two babies without brains were born within weeks of each other at the rural hospital in Washington State where I was working... I was stunned when the delivering physician said another patient was expecting the same outcome. After speaking with colleagues at neighboring hospitals, I learned that two other babies with anencephaly had recently been born in the area. In over 30 years of nursing, I had seen only two cases of anencephaly prior to these. I called the Washington State Department of Health and reported a birth defect cluster... RISK FACTORS... Radiation exposure. Popular media and blogs have often linked the Washington State NTD cluster to the Hanford Nuclear Reservation in Benton County, Washington. Although leaks from nuclear power plants have been associated with a higher rate of anencephaly and other NTDs, Washington State Department of Health investigators point out that the three counties with the highest prevalence of NTDs were both upwind and upriver of the Hanford site, making the nuclear plant an unlikely cause of the 2012 cluster.

Hello Susan, I, for one, have been screaming about Hanford for decades. Many tribes have fishing rights along this area. Which I guess we can kiss goodbye, but my daughter who loves salmon thinks it is safe higher up the river and I do not agree. But more than salmon even is the enormity of this waste site, how very long it's been known to be unstable, how absolutely nothing has been done about it. Even as it oozes more and more and more.

It has been more than 40 years now since I've been in Yakima. I was just passing through and walking the most of it. I suspect also in this mix GMOs and their poisons. In Nevada, before I got pregnant, I worked briefly at a potato packing plant with a bunch of Indian women, which I have to say was one heck of a lot of fun, kinda like a Lucille Ball episode. We laughed all the time. This was still winter. Come the season, they would all be north planting potatoes. I believe that is done near Yakima as well. So it occurs to me that that is another factor besides Handford, and even including Hanford and Fukushima as your link here mentioned dust as, inhaled, most likely aspect of route to encephalopathy. Can you imagine planting a zillion potatos-French fries anyone? And then harvesting them? One hell of a lot of dust in a landscape of dust and depression. These are poverty communities. And for the most part uneducated peoples.

Also, cannot help but remember a show, perhaps on Vice, HBO's Vice, in Kyzackstan-I am spelling that wrong?- in Russia. Back when, men were viewing nukes as landscaping tools, in the US, it was proposed to use a nuke to blast a hole through a mountain for a railroad.

Fortunately, that plan was scrapped. But, Russia used one to make a dam. Ever after, the water that flowed from that dam was highly radioactive leading to tons of babies born there with mass deformities including this brain, this diminished brain condition. Rooms and rooms of suffering infants. So extreme that the native doctor in charge there made it a goal of his to create a passport for the adults should they leave, that would identify them as from this area, so as to prevent them from having more babies as they thought if only they moved elsewhere, not realizing this travels with. Poor doc was extremely distraught over the sheer magnitude of the problem. It was easy to see why and heartbreaking to boot.

We live in a highly nuclear and radioactive world. And I don't mean the normal background radioactivity. The dust has been blown everywhere. In a blog under this link, some knowledgeable? person explained that dust was the main way, main target way to affect a fetus's brain and spinal cord.

Hi Rachael Robson — Thank you for your insights. I haven't eaten any fish at all since 1994! Even in New Zealand I was not comfortable eating fish. A friend in Seattle almost died from 'pure' fresh Copper River Salmon around that time. So I agree with you that no Salmon is safe. The Pacific Ocean is contaminated from Fukushima.

I received an email from a local here today: "Being from Richland, I have followed this [Hanford] story for a couple of years now. It could well have to do with agricultural chemicals as well because a lot of it is in the Yakima Valley which is not so much exposed to Hanford radiation." So again you are correct. We are poisoned from every direction, internally and externally. It is this massive 'electrification' of the atmosphere, the air which is beginning to concern me most and which I can feel, my hands begin to tremble...especially here with the Navy's electronic warfare zapping. The thrill of godlike power in plasma physics has driven these reckless totally unconscious plasma physicists mad. They have no reverence for the Nature's Earth — and I'm afraid nothing will stop them from destroying our planet's Magnetosphere.

Hi Susan! I so appreciated your reply, thank you. I always ate but a little fish, told it was good for me but I'm from the midwest where fish meant crawdadies! I did like salmon-some, trout more, and used to like catfish blackened with garlic and parsley. But no more. Last year, as daughter so loves crab, hubbie and youngest grandson went out on a crabbing boat—to the Faralones!!!! That place can probably rival Hanford. I asked hubbie when he called to tell her their catch, if they glowed. He laughed and said: No, Rachel. These people, family, are highly aware of geoengineering but not radiation??!! Laugh it off. As if. Well, as if California was not monitoring nor reporting!

Gotta tell you that when daughter was 17 she was traveling with a youngish medicine man full of promise and he took her to a small tribe in Canada which rolled out the "red carpet" for them. The girl ate so much salmon that their stores of were utterly depleted! Hence, they had to go, she and her medicine man boyfriend/man friend, out and replenish the tribe's salmon stock! So, she got to fish the native way, off of big rocks with nets of sorts, kinda basket nets. I'm glad she had that experience since it likely will never happen again.

I don't want to eat any fish because I know good and well what is in the ocean and it is more than Fukushima. I have friends in the coast guard and who move ships and boats for a living and so have first hand knowledge of what a toilet our ocean is. I know how many nukes have been blown in, on and over the Pacific. I won't eat seaweed either. The chicken store here which is organic, the food I buy for them, suggested seaweed for stress when molting. A couple or three years ago I tried that, seemed to make them worse and quit it and dumped it. Pretty darn soon, if not already, what will be safe to eat? They are growing food from scratch in labs now.

I have a great deal of sympathy and empathy for your situation with the electro/magnetic war games. Oh, and to add to the waters-our freakin navy. I can't believe they are doing these war games anywhere, much less up close on our coasts, Puget too and elsewhere, but on the beautiful Olympic Peninsula?!! Clearly you are strong, yet sensitive, very sensitive. Must be driving you nuts. For what it is worth, I did try for years to fight against this happening for all the good that did. When I see the signs of electro/magnetic frequencies in the skies here as on the 23rd, I feel not myself. I feel a kind of anger, a tension, just a feeling I can't describe well. I applaud you for keeping your wits and sharing so much info at the same time. You seem a wonder woman. You are one year older than I. But I'm not the lady you are. You inspire me all the time to try harder. I wish you'd read Herndon's book: Earth and the Dark Side of Science. He makes a perfect case for a georeactor at Earth's core which maintains our magnetosphere. Given the violence since 1945, we may have pushed things to a polar reversal.

Rachael Robson — Thank you. What a great story you shared about your daughter and the medicine man! I admit that I grew up in 1950s beef oriented Texas and giving up fish was not so difficult for me. Very interesting about your coast guard pals opinion of the ocean. Back in the late 1980s I saw a documentary that revealed the allowed level of Mercury in tuna was based on the highest level found each year. Ok...I got it. The tuna industry at work. :o)

We are almost the same age, same cookie batch. Thank you for your kind and generous words. I'm deeply touched. The rf/mircrowave energies do bother me more than anything. My hands tremble. But lately I've been, for lack of a better word "meditating" a great deal, meaning attempting to remember all day that I'm not my body, that I'm an eternal being. And either that, or the kefir (laughing) & hemp oil, is working for me. I'm strangely getting stronger. Plus Dane and everyone here provide a real inspiration and source of strength. I'm honored to be here with people like you and Commander Wigington! THANK YOU! Oh – and I bought Herndon's book today when I saw you recommend it. Awesome. I agree, they have pushed the planetary magnetic harmonic alignments too far and this new proton ray at CERN is frightening. The metaphysical 'substratum' is vulnerable.

Susan, just wanted to say that I worked in a NICU for 6 years during the 80s and I took care of a few babies (three or four) born with anencephaly while I was working there. Also, I had a sister born in the early 70s who also had the same diagnosis (and died the next day). So perhaps it is not quite as uncommon as the nurse writing in the AJN was implying. Even so, I don't believe in nuclear power, period. It's just too risky, IMO.

Thank you very much. And thank you for all you do. I just said a prayer for you, your family, and the lawyers working with you.

@Susan Ferguson, Good morning Susan. So glad you are reading Herndon! Also, occurs to me that you first mentioned your hands shaking at that meeting with the Navy. You said it had never happened before. Do you think the electromagnetic stuff they are doing is causing it? Kefir can't hurt but my money is on the hemp oil for you renewed strength! And yes, of course Cern is a concern, a dangerous one, but gee I love it. I love particle physics, love it all. Would love to see Cern in action! Really would. The last effort amazed me and lead me to a major insight, along with an aspect of Herndon's theories.

@Jenny, You are right of course, these things happen, and I am sorry your sister was one. Must have devastated your mother. How many new borns when you worked at a NICU? And where was that? The time periods you mention were all very nuclear. What gave me the courage to be a midwife with virtually no training was the statistic back then of 2% things could go wrong. Would the babies you cared for be 2%, or more or less? Perhaps what the nurse was saying was in reference to cluster cases. And % of.

- o  Jenny says:
March 31, 2016 at 2:39 am

Rachel, that experience really did a number on my mother, especially since she was never even allowed to see or hold the baby, and afterwards wasn't "allowed" to really talk about the experience, either. (She'd also had a miscarriage prior to that pregnancy.) But when I took care of those babies, the parents were able to hold them while they were dying (they lived up to a few weeks). My mother had my sister in the northeast and the hospitals where I worked for a total of 7 years with newborns were in New England. I saw babies with prematurity, of course, and all kinds of deformities, missing eye, phocomelia, rare diseases. It always seemed weird to me that everyone I knew on the outside had relatively healthy babies (except for stuff like autism) whereas at work it was a constant parade of "what could go wrong". I took care of thousands of babies over those years but only as I said 3 or 4 with anencephaly. When I became pregnant, a geneticist I knew from work did some testing and a consultation w/ me and said I had a one in 50 chance of having a baby with a neural tube defect (having seen the hospital report from my sister).

Strongly agree with Dane's comment; " Exposure of the legal effort needs to be circulated as widely as possible. "

I also note the Claim cites " aerial discharge of coal fly ash and/or other contaminants " Lately i have been studying J. Marvin Herndon's work on the subject of coal fly ash, and find it remarkable in many ways. For one, it surprises me just how late he woke up, given his field, and it's also remarkable that this correlation between the ready supply of the material and the application was in general terms quite late to be connected and/or considered by anyone. (better late, than never) I think its this month Herndon is in Hawaii attempting to get samples using glider pilots at some crazy elevation (30,000ft?) The results could be substantive. I wish him luck!

Thanks Dane for bringing the filing of this Claim to our attention.

Hello James-In-Ont ! So happy to hear from someone else studying Herndon's work. The dude is brilliant. Have you read his book: Earth and the Dark Side of Science? Very, very informative. On oh so many levels including the hurdles Dane has been jumping and why. I too thought it a tad odd about when he became aware of chemtrails, but then I do not know San Diego. Do know his field is the ground, all the way down and he writes and studies a lot. His main focus is his concept of a nuclear reactor at the core of our Earth and its relationship to our magnetic field as well as those of some other planets and moons of. It is taking me so long to finish his book, that I did not know what he is up to right now. Glider pilots at 30,000 feet up? Chancy, but possible. I so wish him luck on this. I know he is pissed owing in part to how his article for us on Coal Fly Ash got dissed and deep sixed. But, he is no stranger to that, and every bit as stubborn as Dane. I suspect this new effort is about proving his own theory as much as anything else.

I am so glad Dane is so stubborn. Finally a legal case in motion! Well done Dane! And yes, to be spread far and wide, like chemtrails. I am sorry but I just cannot call them persistent contrails because that is a lie, it is false and leads to confusion. We could say spray trails. Here in the Bay Area, Berkeley, the skies yesterday were insane, no other way to put it. It would seem obvious to anyone, just anyone. Such right in your face, over the top insanity that they clearly don't care anymore that we know. One very long high arching rope-with-knots line from east to west and huge, took a u turn so incredibly obvious, dipped down and around and headed back east!-I could barely make out the dot of the plane still leading that trail who knows where. There were x ones, all sorts and all over, as well as tightly packed rippled clouds-huge ones. This morning, no birds sang as they did yesterday. None. Help can't come soon enough! I can barely stand the waiting on legal and now on this effort of Herndon's. What a coup that would be! What a coup this legal effort too! But more proof of the coal fly ash would help that enormously. Thank you James!!

I agree with so many comments here that this filing and that soon to occur in the US turns our credibility into a "churnin' urn of burnin' funk", to borrow from one of my heroes, James Taylor. That there still exist intelligent human beings who blindly scoff at the notion that planet-wide spraying is occurring is nothing short of ludicrous, but that is about to change. But of course there are those for whom no amount of substantiation of a given reality will change their pickled minds, vis-a-vis the concept of man-caused climate change. And to think we actually have elected congressmen who subscribe to the notion that man is NOT the cause of whatever it is we are experiencing now. Fantastically unbelievable! But this legal filing WILL turn some heads, and perhaps with the help of Kaplan in D.C. press releases will amplify by orders of magnitude the gist of this case. Way to go, Dane and team!!! This filing proves that WE activists ain't goin' away anytime soon. Unless of course, they change the contents of the spray to something so lethal we all drop dead in our tracks. Would they ever do this? Will a cornered animal lash out with claws extended?

I'm not holding my breath. We are just now at the beginning of this and everything up until now has just been the Prologue. There is no telling what kind of nasty backlash and murderous tricks "they" will try to pull going forward, fighting us every step of the way. The Monster is truly being backed into a corner and it would be my wish that any of the "brothers and sisters" who haven't spoken out yet in support of stopping geoengineering will LEAP on board the anti-geoengineering train and add more real momentum to become a juggernaut steaming toward the actual truth in a sane reality.

Things have change too much... especially in the past several years. Too much, too fast. And not for the better. It no longer appears that they can "control" what it appears they have been controlling. You play a "God" and you're immortal, you lose. It's been too hot and getting worse. What kind of world will be left when it's no longer being manipulated by the so called elitist. All I see are people oblivious to what's happening around them. They dont want listten, care or are too lost in their own world to see what is going on. All I see is it being over before everyone wakes up in time, if even at all. It's too late. Too much damage has been done. And not enough are waking up to reality. I'm sorry Dane. But it's what I see here in the East coast.

Hello Dave, yes, the horizon is dim indeed, but who can say what good we may yet do even at this late hour? Who can say what allies we my have that we are not yet aware of? Those that are currently trying as hard as they can to keep their heads in the sand will very soon be forced to wake due to unfolding events. Solace can be found in dedicating oneself completely to the fight for the greater good, it's not over till it's over, never give up.

This is such an important breakthrough – I can't believe that something in a legal sense is finally being attempted. And we all send our hope and best wishes for its success.

I'm making prints of this and sending them to my hard-headed family members and friends who think I'm off my rocker for even mentioning 'chemtrails' and geoengineering or solar radiation management and all the rest of the death rays with which we are bombarded. Why cannot people out there who have their heads, not in the clouds, but in a gopher hole not see that this is an ultimate weapon – a weapon that very quickly can be turned into something even more deadly than it is.

But, let optimism rule this day, thanks to the bevy of Canadian and American attorneys who are brave enough to put a stop to this madness. Everyone stay safe – and Dane, you take the bows that you so strongly deserve.

Great news, Dane! I pray that at least SOME Canadians in the legal system, AND the population at large, will be awakened and motivated to learn the truth about the ongoing hidden-in-plane-sight geoengineering offense against humanity. I hope that many photographic examples of grossly geoengineered skies over Canada will be included in the evidence presented. I notice the submission proposes that the legal proceedings be in Toronto. Put a call out for as large a presentation of photographs from the Toronto area as can be included. Seeing the evidence framed by their own backdrop might strike a louder chord of recognition in their little programmed-denial minds. I personally saw the trails start bigtime over Toronto way back in the late 1990s....that was yet another reason to move out! Ha! Hopefully, there must be quite a few "GTO" mangled-sky pictures by now. I do have one of my fist, shaking in silhouette against a smeary filamented sky, centered on the ever-popular huge barium-brown sunring effect that was part of the show that day, back in the year 2000. Where do I send it?

God bless your legal team, I pray they will be a sheriff's posse who will not let go of their quarry until this whole huge, ugly mess is totally EXPOSED!

I can hear those celestial hoofbeats getting louder already....

It's both moving and motivating to hear of your background and learn that you are stepping forward with such expertise and knowledge. It could lead to a great push for this movement. I have on reserve about 100 questions for someone of your special awareness. I'll pose a couple if i may; a) does it seem likely that the geo-engineering we see (blatantly in our face) is entirely produced by a fleet controlled by military and/or sub-contracted out under their jurisdiction, say NATO and does not involve commercial carriers; and b) is this negotiated as a treaty agreement at the UN; and c) is it possible the vehicles flying are unmanned, piloted remotely; and d) how many aircraft do think (roughly) are in the fleet?

Those are just 4 that rolled off the top of my head, not necessarily the most burning of questions. BTW, was that RCAF?

Cheers!

I just hope the Canadian courts are more expeditious than the ones here in the US. My husband was killed by a truck driver. After initiating a lawsuit, it took six years to get anywhere near a trial. Magnificent progress! The head of the spear. Very likely will start a chain reaction. Individual provinces, and then with the American filing, states can proceed, individually, too. My question is how to define the defendant: Is it the American government, Canadian and American governments in concert, NATO, the US Air Force, all the corporations and think tanks who constructed the secret program?

Anyone who knowingly participates or participated in (what most people would recognize as) this attempted manslaughter needs to be brought to justice and pay for his crimes with a forfeiture of his freedom on a harsh scale up to life for the instigators and executors. The death penalty seems appropriate in several instances, they need to be strung up on officially constructed lamp poles, made examples of.

I feel better already! On a local level a staffer with my Congressional Rep. texted me about the three pic from the post a day or two ago. I sent them to their office and said the issue is political and stopping geoengineering is a growing issue about which Huffman will have to face. She wrote back and inquired about protest locales. They are not in Huffman's district. But, she was very encouraging about this issue, and locale was not the issue with her. I think there is a need to organize a protest here in Mendocino County. Ukiah would be the more propitious venue. Perhaps the timing should be in the time frame of the US court filing.
