David Lim's Experience

Researcher, Speaker and Author Independent Researcher

September 2013 – Present (6 months) | South West UK

I am currently an independent researcher having left academia in 2013 due to ethical, moral and political reasons. With an advanced understanding of environmental science and geopolitics, I am now working to raise awareness of geoengineering (climate engineering), weather modification, military involvement of atmospheric manipulation and electromagnetic fields (EMF).

Electrical load researcher

The University of Reading

Educational Institution; 1001-5000 employees; Higher Education industry
October 2007 – September 2013 (6 years) | Reading, United Kingdom

I developed an Artificial Neural Network model for predicting domestic electrical appliance loads for the UK. I was also involved in teaching building energy simulation tools at Reading and created carbon reduction strategies for buildings. I also consulted for The Royal Academy of Engineering, UK in 2010 having authored a report which analysed energy efficiency and occupant behaviour issues.

PhD researcher

UoR

2009 – 2010 (1 year)
