The Push For Legal Action To Expose Climate Engineering

A battle cannot be successfully fought without an army of committed and qualified individuals that are working together. Such a movement is only possible when a critical mass of awareness is achieved. After many years of struggling to raise this awareness, the anti-geoengineering movement has now reached a level of awakening that has brought legal experts and other essential professionals into the fight on our side. Climate engineering is rapidly tearing apart the planet's life support systems and contaminating the entire biosphere. It is imperative that we expose and halt the climate engineering programs as fast as possible or we will soon have nothing left to salvage of our health or our once thriving planet. The conference call recorded below had nearly 300 participants and listeners at peak. Among the participants and listeners were attorneys and judges from multiple states, former government biologists, and the CEO of a major global environmental consulting firm. The primary purpose of the call was to answer questions relating to climate engineering for some of these professionals (who are the main participants in the conversation) and to arrange the connection of attorneys from different states which will take place in our follow-up private conference calls to begin in the following days. I have also recently had a 3 hour face to face meeting with an internationally recognized celebrity who has contributed his attorney to our fight. I will publish updates on our ongoing efforts as soon as it is appropriate and I am allowed to do so. It is important to remember that a primary goal of legal proceedings is to force media coverage of the geoengineering issue. My most sincere gratitude to each and every activist that has tirelessly helped raise awareness of the global climate engineering issue to the level that we have now achieved. The effort to sound the alarm needs to continue each and every day and in every possible arena. If we all march together in this battle, we may yet accomplish profound changes for the better even at this late hour. DW

P.S. My apologies for the initial rough audio, it improves as the conference proceeds. There were so many people on the call that the server overloaded and the mediator had a difficult time properly muting when needed.

Couple of my friends and parents watch this going on practically daily here in Australia, and just know they're doing harmful stuff and keeping it from us, but try talk to anyone else about it and they assure me it is "just the exhaust trail from planes taking off"! I have tried to point out that the sky is full of these trails that have spread out by now as they start here about 7-8am, but most people think you're wrong, and some kind of conspiracy theorist, they are just clouds!!! I looked on this site and I see so many people are aware of it, so what is it that we as a huge and growing group can do? I mean it is our world too, not theirs alone. We should be living in a world where, as a large group of people that disagree with something that is being done to it, we are able to act on it and be listened to. My partner was aware of this some years back and was always trying to find out what was going on, but there were never any answers. I see today more and more people are aware, how is it that these agencies, which were developed in the first place to speak up and act for us, for our wishes as a people, and it has turned complete 360 where they do what 'they' want to us, our wants are never even considered, and then keep the truth from us. Billboards are great, petitions need to be signed, but will they listen? One would certainly hope before it is totally too late. Unfortunately most of the rest of the world are just caught up in living, and you cannot blame people for that, but if we all were to make too much noise, surely something would be done?? Way more of us than there are of them.

all involved should go to prison, this must stop now the health of the trees are getting worse by the day, here in Ohio, people are too focused on going about their daily life and not looking at nature telling us something's badly wrong. Don't let them hide or get away with it. They have damaged all of our health. Killing life itself, the bees, the fish, micro life, trees are stressed very badly. Wake up what the hell is going on here? People think it's fear mongering. Bunch of sleepers.

Dane,

About a week or two ago I began noticing orange/red/brown mucky spray trails overhead versus white silvery trails that they normally spray in Sacramento and Placer Counties in Northern California. About the same time this started, my tongue and sinuses started burning, my eyes staring tearing for hours, and then I began having nose bleeds—which never ever happens to me.

A business associate asked me if I was sick because he said my voice didn't sound the same. I then told my husband about the nose bleeds and he seemed surprised and told me he just started having nose bleeds too...which also never happens to him. This is just too strange! I then spent a couple hours online yesterday searching for any supplements we can take to help with the symptoms we're experiencing from the spray bombardment however I couldn't really find information. I also checked your website but couldn't find anything. Do you have anything posted that you could recommend or know of other websites. The only thing I found was a site that recommended using a wet cloth over a mask which is not possible. Any suggestions?

Hello Pat, certainly the experiment in our skies is in a constant state of “flux”, who can say what they are spraying at any given moment. I am hearing from others who are not getting nose bleeds. Filtration of nano particulates is next to impossible, staying indoors on heavy spray days can be of some help. We must expose and halt the insanity, there is no other option.

Hi Pat. I hope you're feeling a bit better; what a terrible thing to go through. I would check out Dr Tent in Michigan. You can watch his videos on youtube (Diverse Health Services is the channel) and email or call the office to have a Skye appointment set up. He is extremely knowledgeable with a 30+ yr background in healing people who have given up on/been a victim of the 'system'. All the best.

I am truly hopeful about the legal assistance helping to impact in a favorable way. This is really awesome.

We're being heavily sprayed daily in the Sacramento and Placer County areas in Northern California. The trails use to be a white silvery haze. Starting a few days ago, the trails are a burnt orange/red/brown mucky color. Does anyone know what is in this color mix. The coloring is very disturbing—even more so than the white goo mix. Is there a new particulate they are spraying now?

Yes, rain in the 20 % range is scheduled for Sunday and Monday here in Northern California. True to form, the jets are spraying big time. And much of it is being done off the Pacific coast. I will be very surprised if it does anything more than mist. I took iPhone photos all day yesterday and one would believe the radio frequency bombardments have been increased. Never have I seen such a variety of bizarre morphed zapped clouds. In the process of snapping the visual evidence I keep one in the natural setting. Then I use the noir setting for black and white. That removes the glare. What you then have is a pic that shows the structure of the fake zapped clouds. Believe me, show those black and white pics to those in denial. ...

Hi Dane, thank you for the clarification. I'm not at all sure you've been this clear about your goal before. I've read and watched nearly everything here, and while I've heard you say we need our military, that once they realize they are doing this to their own...and needing a critical number of them on our side. Tall order that. I get the need to shatter the denial and normalcy bias-especially normalcy-I think sometimes we underestimate that one. We are all familiar with denial. Clearly, with the weather this past winter and now with the massive flooding, I think inroads towards shattering normalcy bias have been made. Yes the east was cooler, but at such a cost to lives and property. As if that were not enough, this massive flooding is so over the top it actually lends us a platform. People have been programmed to think this is all part of "climate change" and I think they are ready to believe anything in which that is not the answer! Much more likely to consider geoengineering. Because, in part, something could be done, as in stopping it.

Given your goal of media reporting, potential legal acts strike me as nowhere near fast enough.

Billboards are great, but again, not fast enough. I have but one suggestion which is to deluge media with letters. As well as all our representatives, all of them. Magazines too. Again and again. Flood them with questions about why they are not reporting these obvious assaults, known and proven to cause weather havoc, especially in such an imperfect, experimental science that by the way is killing us, making all of us sick and nature too. No comments on other issues like vaccines, only geoengineering and the loud silence of the media, and our representatives-who, theoretically are there For us! By us! And not for long if they keep up this wall of silence. I suggest preparing letters that refer to the details of geoengineering, and actually mail them as opposed to email. If sent by email, it would attract attention of employers and others, hands might be tied. If outside of that loop, one might get a written response. People could construct in their own words such a letter, copy it, send to all again and again, and again. People in the military, relatives of, could send such letters to their person(s). I know one doctor who got to be a doctor via the army but was sprayed with agent orange as a grunt in Viet Nam, slogging through the mud.

He is now very sick from this. Only now occurs to me to talk to him about this-he's not someone I see often. When I say I hate our military, I do not mean every person, people like him, for whom it was the only way out of poverty toward an education. I am sure he has contacts. I have trouble believing enough would bail to join us, but it sure would be helpful. I can't help but think that Jesse Ventura backed off owing to being a Navy Seal, which seems to stick for life. I've heard that the really hard core guys do not give a care to what they are doing. Will not. But, they do depend on underlings to get the job done. I know very few here who listen to the news or even own a TV.

But, I come from the heartland, and they do, and they have an enormous normalcy bias. We have to make it clear to the news, the meteorologists, that they and theirs are being harmed 24/7, along with the rest of us. It would of course be helpful to be as clear as possible, give accurate terms, and references as well as links to patents and what is known for fact.

What do you think? A united, constant blizzard of letters demanding disclosure, finding anything else as irrelevant and beneath their standing. As well as asking why, from whom, the shut down of the media.

In Rosalie Bertell's second book, she says that in 1996? the military deployed 1200 psyops personnel to infiltrate CNN at all levels. Tough road to hoe. Again, personal letters. Make all aware of human consequences which includes them. I am pretty sure Anderson Cooper doesn't want to die, and he would not lose much if he lost his job. Ask whomever to pressure whoever is keeping them from speaking their mind. It is becoming clear to me that the meteorologists are grasping for words, flustered, dying to say something, nearly giving up. Perhaps they are target number one.

Dane and all, what do you think of this idea?

Doug, Raider Focus? is the military movement in CO? I wanna know more about that.

As a gardener/grower, I have often observed how a stressed plant will attract every single aphid there is. You'd think the aphids would go for the healthy, juicy looking same plant near stressed one, but no, they prefer stressed. So it is with the beetles. And even humans.

Predatory bugs that go for the dying and sick. So, first a tree or plant is stressed-could be many things, lack of or too much water, soil, abuse, whatever, then the predators move in and chow down. We are told that despite the fact that we are getting less sun-a lot less, more than 20%-that itself would stress many plants, but in addition, we are getting off the charts UV readings-as in intense burning light, literally burning the bark off trees. Add to that the chemicals from geoengineering and you have a death spiral. There are other factors too that can do it, but these are the main ones, especially given the sheer scale of it.

I am very interested in what the out of control military is doing. What do you see them doing? Thank you for your observations. R

- Rachel Robson says:
May 30, 2015 at 11:13 am

Craig, I worry about this-the anger, the frustration-all righteous but takes a toll on people.

For one thing, know that you are on the right side and there are others who feel the same. I don't get angry when faced with this, I cannot spare the energy for anger, heck I can barely stay awake! If someone I try to tell about this doesn't believe or even care or want to know, usually I just drop it. Oddly, as it turns out, this has worked! The person may first think I am crazy-and that is okay with me. I mean, I know I am not. But later, when that person notices this and that, they remember what I said. And! they tell someone else! So, as Dane often says: plant a seed (of knowledge), the seed was planted, then it grew. Unknown to me and no one thanked me but I don't need recognition nor thanks. Just to wake people up! In one case and one case only, I had to end the friendship. For MY mental health, and the person was a jerk, so not grieving that loss. I think it is a good thing and normal for someone to doubt. I mean, you wouldn't believe something someone said just because they said it, especially if as big a deal as this, would you? So, know that doubt, denial, is normal-at first. One magazine so good I subscribed for years, responded with conspiracy theory when I asked if they were investigating this. So, I quit the subscription and told them why and that they had no claim to journalism if denying this, the biggest story of our times. They want me back of course. I made it clear that I would come back if they addressed this. Only then. I told a neighbor who didn't believe me. Apparently she eventually did and does and told my landlord, so that while he and I were looking at his dying Norway Spruce tree, he actually said probably because of geoengineering! I nearly fainted! My advice would be to take your anger and do something constructive-maybe literally-like cleaning or splitting logs-something. When I was younger and healthier, if I got way upset over something I could not control, I'd tackle some nasty job needing doing, and sure enough, it would calm me down and bonus! nasty job done. Just trust that some of the seeds you planted, while initially rejected, will grow. And move on to someone else! Don't make them feel forced on the spot to agree. They need to process the info. And hey, meditation is a good thing! Helps.

With as many people (climbers, hikers, tourist,) into the 10s of thousands that visit Yosemite National Park each year and the great interest in preserving National Parks you would think at some point there would be an outcry from people about the so obvious chemtrails above Yosemite. I check this site daily <http://www.yosemiteconservancy.org/webcams> sometimes more than once a day just to see how much spraying is taking place. It's quite heartbreaking to see what has been going on for years in the sky's above such a beautiful place. When I confront people about what is causing their illnesses, they look at me like I'm nuts. I have had some thank me for getting their awareness. I miss Kevin Martins chemtrail reports, which we all would have stood up for him as I used his report each day like I have coffee. He is a hero to me for caring to help us all. I believe it would take all of us to show up at the White House steps to stop all the corruption going on. Not even the most intelligent knows what is going on or they just don't care. I just read an article on Global Research about the CIA closing the doors on its MEDEA program (Measurements of Earth Data for Environmental Analysis). Even while Obama is upping the rhetoric about global warming possibly leading to terrorist attacks (not worried, he, about the fact that it's killing people by the thousands elsewhere in the world; to him it's another useful way of keeping Americans afraid). On the same site, there is an article about US warmongering against China (because the warmongering against Russia, Iran, Syria and Yemen is going so well?)

I hope I'm just being too cynical in thinking that: A) the CIA move means that the data is so bad even climate scientists would freak out (despite their usual cold, clinical approach to the world's sundry atrocities); B) the push for war is real this time, because a nuclear winter would handily obscure – even reverse – the warming; C) that Jade Helm is going to go nationwide; and D) that we are all in for it.

Please, someone, tell me it's all going to be okay! No, don't bother; I won't believe it anyway.

One thing I am finding is that it's easier to start a conversation about spraying if I introduce it as (partly) a NATO program to be able to control communications, by making the atmosphere more conductive. People (maybe just the ones I am around) seem more open to that, because obviously such a program would be top secret. From there, since Norwegians mostly accept that the globe is warming (it's pretty obvious here), it isn't too hard to get onto "and they are spraying because they are in a panic about the climate."

Still, most young people don't seem to care at all. NATO? What's NATO? Not sure how to reach the internet generation...

Dane, can I not put a foot right? I am quite aware of critical mass of awareness, I fight for it and against denial every single day. Which is why in my post I mentioned Kylie's tweet to 9 and 1/2 million people all over the world. Would that more in her position do just that! Know that I have almost no faith in the legal system-you know I am Native. However, to your point, last year Sen. Louise Slaughter started a petition regarding the TTP, asking why, why no media coverage on such an important issue. Her petition ended apparently nearly as soon as she began it. Telling, that.

The thing is, given those who are aware and trying to awaken others, it is a helpless feeling and obvious from input that many think a law should cover this. Someway to move forward. Or, just stew? As if in a slow stewing pressure cooker? Toward what end? Madness? Unadulterated rage? Depression? Running amok? This is taking a huge toll on many people who cannot cope and a major reason why some refuse to learn as they feel too helpless against too much. The odds of media covering this are remote, very remote. But, I am hopeful. And trying. As I've tried to find out what stopped Louise. Something did, that is for sure. Yet all struck, awestruck by full circle rainbow over Niagara Falls. If only you could explain something like that and stuff that goes with, owing to geoEngineering on Bill's show, and I am trying. Have you tried Erin? Bill Maher has such a broad audience, not to mention the show he produces: Vice. Of course people are going to have some happiness that this could hit the courts-no one likes to just stew in helplessness, while all become more and more sick, thus unable to do what they would like to do for the cause. I'd like to know what you envision news coverage would do? Few even watch the news anymore. Would that be like Raytheon admitting? What is it you imagine being on standard news would accomplish? A less sectarian audience? Then what? A revolution?-I am not opposed, just do not see how against our military. Unless they all bail which is extremely unlikely. I can envision many saying no, but not the hard core. What, to you, constitutes critical mass? Is there a number? How is one to know when it is reached and then what? People with an issue are goal oriented. What, besides media coverage is the goal then? If there is a bill in RI, no one seems to be reporting it. How do You envision this stopping? I think these are valid questions.

Speaking of which and RI-Ransom Thomas, what bill in RI? Do tell! Has it been covered by the media there?

Again Dane, I am and have been on your side, the side of right action and mindfulness. But, the end game eludes me. I mean, of course stopping geoEngineering, but how?

And Jim, I am totally with you as concerns tearing down the Rothschild's global power structure. Hate to be so repetitive, but how?

Hello Rachel, to be clear, we have one chance in this equation, we must force enough media coverage to shatter the denial and normalcy bias of the greater population. The climate engineering issue is like no other, it is killing ALL of us, there is no place to hide. Once the masses are forced to face that fact, there will be a paradigm shift one way or another. I have said countless times that only when we reach such levels of coverage will our military personnel realize what they are doing to their own. Only then will we have a chance, we must have a critical number of them on our side, there is no other way. If you know another way forward, please tell me.

Regarding May 16, 2015 article on this board, titled TOXIC SPRAYING, RADIO FREQUENCY BOMBARDMENT, A LETHAL MIX: the first image posted shows a satellite pic showing roiled corn row clouds over northern Mexico and southern Texas. The appearance of these jet induced aerosol created clouds is that the entire mass has been artificially created and given their shape because of powerful radio frequency bombardments. The date the image is May 12. I cannot help but wonder if the horrific weather happening in Texas and the Midwest in general has been caused by this. There are lives lost and huge property losses. The May 12 image is clearly massive tampering with the atmosphere. The article did not state attribution for who or what or time taken for the image. That would be of interest, too.

To stop ongoing global crisis, the people of the World MUST tear down the Rothschild's global power structure.

The Rothschild's power started with the Federal Reserve Act of 1913 which gave them private and total ownership of America's banking and money supply. Now, the entire money supply which they privately print out of nothing and loan to the U.S. government is all being paid back to the Rothschilds with compounding interest all the time. As a conservative estimate, the Rothschilds are now worth over 100 trillion dollars. All countries worldwide have this same big problem, since almost all have a Rothschilds owned Central Bank. The Rothschilds are trying to reinforce their power by getting the the TPP signed into law. Further, the Rothschilds are attempting to rule globally using a World Currency. The Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank (AIIB) is also associated with the Rothschilds.

The Rothschilds are going to intentionally crash the dollar to try to trick Americans into accepting a World Currency that they control, therefore, they MUST be stopped.

Since they own all of the Global Central Banking, they loot the money to pay for the gradual Purge they are deploying.

Climate engineering(causes alzheimer's, autism, cancer), vaccines(causes autism and cancer), GMO(causes autism and cancer), fluoride in the water(causes low IQ, and cancer), poison pharmaceuticals, economic crashes, wars, full control of the media and bribery of the government, and also nullification of the Constitution are how they are implementing this gradual Purge.

Privately owned Central Banking is the principle mechanism which precipitates the Rothschilds endless looting and must be abolished, all countries must create SOVEREIGN currencies and public national banks to stop the Rothschilds from having total control over countries and funding this gradual Purge which they hope will enable them to achieve global control by using banks as a World Government.

Excellent information and summary of the situation we all face jim. Thank you. I think the more independent currencies we have the better for all nations and people. (that's the way it was for centuries and it worked just fine, remember folks?) We're just basically passing THEIR 'toilet paper' money as things are set up currently. I love using that term- I can not take credit for it; I heard it elsewhere. Things work when each party honors their commitment, or individual 'contract' (whatever they agree on) with one another- be it a trade of goods or services performed, etc.) As long as both parties are satisfied with the transaction results that is all that truly matters. The Native People traded 'wampum' beads or made exchange of goods and services. We also have precious metals. I totally agree we need to eject the current fraudulent monetary system we have all been placed under which causes us to become slaves. I look hopefully to the future for new solutions to come forth from the many great minds around the globe working on these problems. I love to read what the many followers on this site have to say. So many brilliant minds and caring hearts. Thanks Dane for uniting us all in this most important cause of 'putting the pedal to the metal' to save our beautiful Mother Earth and thanks to everyone for their individual efforts. I can't help but feel- It Matters! – whatever the outcome.

Hello Jim: Whilst I agree that the Rothschild group is implicated in the debt slavery of mankind, they do not act alone. There is the Swiss UBS group, massive capital "interests" controlled by the Vatican, Barkley's bank group of Great Brittan, and the list goes on and on. The World's economy is based on debt service and rationed asset distribution under threat of military retaliation.

Putting all this aside, the problem comes down to plain human ignorance. Society has allowed itself to be enslaved by the pathetic illusion of rightful "authority". No one should have any authority over another person, period. When people cower before the illusion of daddy authority, the result is always the same.

Here's an example of how the Pentagon protects us from biological warfare: >

Pentagon admits 24 US labs, 2 foreign states received live anthrax shipments — RT USA

<http://rt.com/usa/263393-pentagon-live-anthrax-shipments/>

When military employees are this slovenly and incompetent, does it mean should we continue to cower before the majesty of their intellects?

Marc, hi and I'm with you in knowing how laborious the legal bit is bound to be, if it even happens. As a Native, it's never worked before. Not in our favor. No favors from these people.

Dane, guess you didn't fully read my post as I said "no time to rest on laurels". In fact, I do doubt if any progress can be made, given who is in charge, ie: the military. I am grateful for your appeals to them. That might help. Or not. It's a bit like banging one's head on a brick wall, isn't it. Even if someone listens and wakes. Of course I know how much more needs doing and I Am doing.

Dog aka db, Hello and welcome out of or into more confusion! This is all a sticky wicket. So many factors. When I last checked, you can read about Jade Helm 15 at the military's own site. First they said 5 states: in southern CA, Arizona, Texas, southern CO, and Nevada. Then, they upped it to 7. Louisiana and? Freaky. At least you've found a place to share what you've been seeing and I am very much looking forward to your observations!

Marc again, It really is a big deal what Kylie Jenner has done. We need young people in this and she just reached one heck of alot of them in one fell swoop. How can that be bad? And she's young yet and deserves not to be judged on the basis of her family. But in defense of that show, one reason it is so popular is how very many touchy subjects they bring to light and make public. Embarrassing, but...

As exciting as the prospect of "high visibility" litigation will be to our cause, I am traditionally a "glass half-empty" kind of guy. Look at how EXXON has tied up the courts for decades with their irresponsible legal bullshit. Look at BP and their endless efforts to wiggle out of paying up for their incompetence. The list is long. These guys have armies of lawyers at their beck and call. Comments here are spot on regarding the need to keep spreading awareness of this atrocity. Keeping up the "pressure". It's really all we CAN do, in the face of such monstrous and devastating power and control.

On my bike ride this morning, I became aware, as usual, of jets flying pretty damn high and spreading trails that "dissipated" maybe about 30-40 jet-lengths behind the jet. Clever bastards. But what struck me as I stopped and watched one jet in particular, as it flew directly overhead, was the sheer unadulterated inanity of it all. The absolute absurdity of this alleged attempt to "mitigate the effects of global warming". I am calling them out on their bullshit! Lies! Lies! Anyone with even half a brain can figure out that these operations imply an extremely sinister agenda, given the extreme toxicity of the aerosol content. Even the likes of Kylie Jenner can figure this one out. Which, by the way, on a socio-cultural level, I find her tweet a wee bit suspicious on the other hand, on account of the general "caliber" of her public personality as it relates to "legitimacy". In any event, that whole sideshow is still quite interesting and possibly.....helpful to our cause at the end of the day.

I'm literally sobbing with relief

Over here in Brisbane, Queensland, Australia "they" haven't been 'striping' our skies for many months now BUT FINALLY TODAY OUR SKIES WERE ALL STRIPEY AGAIN.

Not that they haven't been controlling our weather – central Queensland is having the worst drought on record with 1 farmer a week on average suiciding & the banks foreclosing on 3 or 4 on average per week too....."They" have just been using less obvious ways to do it – or striping so high we can't see it.

Thanx all – thanx Dane

Hello Margriet, I also live in Brisbane. They did indeed blatantly stripe our skies yesterday, the most blatant I can remember. Parallel lines horizon to horizon, the sky resembling a zebra's hide and all day it was like this. The HAARPed clouds were still very prevalent last night.

But as for the skies not being striped for many months that doesn't mean we weren't being sprayed. The sky has not been the colour it should be, deep blue, but has persistently been silvery, whitish blue with the horizons exhibiting that dirty look as we are looking through the thickest aspect of it from our standpoints.

They have previously been very covert in the way they have been spraying us. Several weeks ago I happened to be up very early on a Sunday morning looking to the predawn east and I could see very plainly the whited sky with feinter lines filling it, especially more visible at the point where the sun was going to rise.

The older people have forgotten what skies used to look like and the younger never knew. I am in the middle and because I learned about geoeengineering, I have been reminded that we did indeed have blue skies years ago. I had not noticed the change until I found out on the internet about this topic.

Yes, Queensland's drought is missing largely from our media. Look at the usual front page news of our disgusting local newspaper, The Courier Mail. It's usually football, or IS or some really pathetic irrelevancy. The game is rigged from top to bottom. All we can do is do our best to alert others through as many various means as possible.

Here in the border ranges I have noticed a decrease in the trails flowing. But they are still coming not as urgent. The frequency may be adjusted according to the season. In summer more night time raids that pass by unnoticed. But they always coincide with rain coming up from the southern Pacific ocean and hitting the east coast. Its here that the rain is redirected to a major weather pattern or it disperses before it can touch our interior. May 2015

Today in Jackson , California , the spraying was pure Evil . Some of the worst I have seen in the last ten years . I can not help to think about all the poor sheep that are now being finished off .

The Mokolomie Water Shed is now completely poisoned with morgellons fibers . I will have to boil the water to 3000 + Degrease to kill the pathogen and try and clean up the water . The EPA with their new clean water act will all will be held accountable. That is my duty to make sure they get what they have a comming .

This poison being sprayed on us must stop ,,,, and it needs to stop now .

The laugh of the day: The President went to Florida to confer with the weather people there who are knowledgeable about hurricanes so that he can explain to America how to prepare for and deal with hurricanes. The talk is about climate change but climate change without any mention about WHY we are experiencing such greatly enhanced storms. No mention of geoengineering. This is like keeping the animals in the barn when you already have advanced knowledge that lightening is going to strike. Sure, it is nice to know what to do in case of a hurricane but it would be better to stop the manipulation of weather. Those who lost their lives in Texas due to unusual storms could have used some advance warnings but it would help in Texas if people woke up and stopped listening to FOX.

Good catch Diana Moss. For the fourth time since February, President Barack Obama is set to be in Florida. He goes to the National Hurricane Center in Miami to bring attention to the opening of hurricane season, which officially starts Monday.

He is also there to talk about the need for action on climate change. How covenant as Obama could say I told you so about climate change. What action could be taken this summer as Florida hasn't been hit by a Hurricane since 2005. I surely will be watching Florida this summer for any home brew storms to form.

Well Dane, you've all but done it! Congratulations! Such endless, tireless work finally paying off in hopes of ending this, in gaining the much desired critical mass, and a cadre of informed and able persons to take this further in law. Well done! I was also pleased to hear you talk about the Navy's tricks on our coasts, but nearly threw up when you mentioned they are using depleted uranium in their war practice on coast. In fact I've been nauseous ever since, and feel my skin crawling. I thought what I knew of what the Navy was doing along the coasts was horrible to begin with, kept being amazed that no one else seemed to know or care. Oddly, never crossed my mind they'd be using depleted uranium. What they've done with the stuff so far, our whole military and now the police force? is terrifying. What lunatic thought this was okay to use on California's coast, or any coast?! Goodbye seashore forever? And just when I thought it could not get worse. I mean I knew it could, but did not see this one coming. I guess I am not cruel enough to grasp that possibility, to even imagine it. Not saying the rest isn't horrible, just that this way ups the ante.

So pleased to hear about Kylie Jenner's tweet to 9 and one half million people! To hear how it resonates with young people. That too is huge.

Progress does not mean time to rest on laurels. Good to hear things are about to take a much more positive turn but have trouble believing it. We can't let up now. I'm not clear from this talk where the legal people are going with this. How we are going to stop this, despite critical mass? Our whole system is sick. The entire world choking on poisonous assaults from every direction. Even if we stop this, how do we clean up the mess they have made? I suggest that we only support leaders who have a plan for healing our poisoned, quite thoroughly poisoned planet. First we stop the assaults. That, though, is just the beginning. Hopefully, we will be knowing each other and working together on this for a long long time—when geoengineering is stopped!

when they continue to spray our skies.

also of vital importance as far as timing is concerned is the fast approaching jade helm 15 action soon to happen as soon as june 15th this year these monsters have confused some of our military into thinking that the true us patriots are the enemy!!

the action that they are taking to influence the cause of the heavy rains in texas and oklahoma gives them a wide open door to come in with martial law to clean up or corral the disaster. that coupled with the drought in california and the cold weather in the eastern us last winter has worked well in their favor to confuse us into thinking that

The post is a picture of an aerosol crisscrossed sky with the following quote, "Lets ask ourselves....Why did I see 75 planes spraying white stuff into the sky on my 15 minute drive to work? Who pays for this and why is it happening? Is something being exterminated here? Is that something me? Does this have anything to do with why Honey Bee's are dying off really fast? Why are some days normal with no planes spraying and others look like this? Who is responsible? What effect will this have on our health and our children\'s future? WHO THE F#*% THOUGHT THIS WAS A GOOD IDEA? Am I the only one who sees this?" Kylie's post can be seen here she has 9,414,042 followers on her twitter feed. I pray her tweet spreads like a bush fire among her followers. Kylie Jenner's tweet is all the rage with my three young adult children, who are already awake, and now believe Kylie could help wake up their peers. Dane, from the bottom of my family's heart, thank you for being the front-line of this, the most important battle EVER, in I believe the entire history of the world.

great point, but i wanted to clarify that Kylie Jenner has over 9 million twitter followers! That is an amazing number of young people who were handed this message by someone they idolize so I am soooo hopeful many more people will be waking up, getting angry, and demanding action!

Dane, we've never expected anything less from a person so passionate & dedicated to our environment such as you. For anyone who denies the facts of these covert Gov./Military Aerosol operations currently in full force, it's time for you to all wake up to the reality that these programs are fully existent and our hope is to put an end to these GeoEngineering programs once and for all. Many thanks to Dane Wigington for his tireless efforts, credible data and extremely informative knowledge in waking the public! Now we need the Military to awaken to the reality as they too will soon come to realization that these programs are doing more harm and destroying all life on our planet.

This is what I have been waiting to hear!

Thanks to the army of Goodness and Truth that will stand up to these forces for evil that have driven humanity and all life on Planet Earth to the brink out of their malvolent greed and lust for power.

I have never been a joiner, but I am so pleased to be a small part of this movement to put an end to climate geoengineering. Remember...IF YOU ARE NOT SAYING NO, YOU ARE SAYING YES!
